

We believe teaching is more than just a job.

We believe that teaching is a calling. We believe that teaching is a commitment made by every person who reports for duty in every school in the nation. We believe that teaching is a career that should span a lifetime, touching countless lives along the way with a passion for learning.

We unite our members to advocate for our schools, students, and education professionals.

The Education Association has served those who serve our schools for over 150 years, advocating for great public schools for every student and for education professionals who accept the challenge of making our schools great.

We are successful through the membership and active support of school employees who share our values.

If you also believe that teaching is more than just a job, we invite you to join and actively support the Education Association. You will be joining education professionals throughout the nation in support of having great public schools. Your active support will help others, and yourself, to become better educators and advocates for students.
